Lions And Families Enjoy Outing at Lake

Play Softball, Croquet, Raft Weiners, Elect Next Season's Officers, Mr. and Mrs. Art Wyman Perfect Hosts.

Coleman Lions club accepted the very gracious invitation of Mr. and Mrs. Art Wyman to meet at their home for the season's closing meeting of the club. According to plan a large group of Lions and their families met for an early evening picnic lunch on the lawn of our host and hostess at Crows Nest lake Monday, June 23rd. The weather was ideal for such a gathering and all present enjoyed to the full the pleasant and picturesque surroundings and the cool well-kept lawn where all did justice to an appetizing and sumptuous lunch.

Hardly had the lunch table been cleared away when the bold Lions stalked down to an improvised soft-ball diamond on the grounds of the Sentinel power plant, and were soon joined by a few lionesses and some of the older cubs, to compete in mortal combat. Seldom is seen such a display of diamond acrobatics and wonder performances, and to the mutual enjoyment of all, even to the rather hard-working and sometimes anxious arbiters, to whom the lake-water was sometimes mentioned. During this time the more wary lionesses enjoyed croquet on the lawn, while the younger cubs scrambled here and there frisking about the whole evening, and enjoying especially the ground swings.

This happy gathering concluded their night's entertainment around the bon-fire roasting weiners and joining in community singing, and then topped off by a very appreciative word of thanks to the host and hostess by the retiring president, Dr. C. Rose. The only item of business was the election of the new slate of officers who will take responsibility in September on the reopening of the club's meetings after the holidays. The newly elected officers are as follows: President, P. A. Dickson; 1st vice-president, Dr. R. Lesk; 2nd vice-president, Angelo Gentile; sec.-treas., Fred Guerdar; Tail Twister, Frank Haxby; Lion Tamer, Rudy Alexander; Directors, Harold Houghton and Garfield Picard. All Haysom and Bob Pattinson have still another year to serve as directors.

As the evening's enjoyment came to an end with the singing of "And They Are Jolly Good

Coal Co. Endeavoring to Eliminate Dust Nuisance

Two weeks ago the council discussed the coal dust which came from the International tippie and which blew over Main street and wondered if it was possible to eliminate this nuisance. A letter was sent to International officials asking enlightenment on this matter. Following is the reply which the council has asked The Journal to publish:

June 24, 1941
The Mayor and Council,
Municipality of the Town of Coleman, Alberta.

We acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 13th, asking for information in connection with the elimination of dust from our tippie.

As you probably know, the elimination of fine particles in the cleaning of bituminous coal is a subject which has engaged the attention of foremost engineers, but up until this time the matter is very much in the experimental stage. Plants have been successfully designed to take care of coal dust where the tonnages involved are comparatively small; but with the very large per centage of our coal approximating 50 mesh and lower, it becomes a very difficult problem. The difficulties are increased due to the fact that we have found it necessary to revert to dry cleaning a larger per centage of our coal.

We assure your Council that the objection to coal dust are fully realized by us, and we are endeavoring to keep abreast of engineering developments which may help in the solution of the problem at a later date.

Yours very truly,
INTERNATIONAL COAL & COKE CO. LTD.,
A. F. Short,
Vice-President.

PICTURE BUTTE BALL CLUB HERE SUNDAY

Picture Butte, Alberta senior baseball champions, will play two exhibition games at the local ball field on Sunday at 2 and 6 p.m. against the Pucksters.

During the past two years following the conclusion of the provincial championships, unsuccessful attempts have been made to match these two teams, but to no avail. Sunday should tell which is the better team, Picture Butte, senior champions, or Pucksters, thirds intermediate champions.

Fellows," everyone pronounced the Coleman Lions club first picnic a complete success.

COLEMAN'S LICENSE PLATE NUMBERS

Many former Coleman citizens now reside at the Pacific coast. Many of them scan the Alberta cars in the hope that they might meet some old friends or acquaintances. To make it easier to scan the Alberta cars, here are Coleman license numbers: 50-301 to 50-700 and 89-101 to 89-150. During the past few years more and more Coleman citizens have been moving to the coast and this year is expected to be no exception. School term comes to a close June 30 and then the tourist season will be on in earnest.

Band Raising Funds to Attend Stampede

The local band which has received an invitation to Calgary Stampede parade on Monday, July 7, are fully determined to take part in the big celebration.

On Saturday the members sponsored a tag day and while some funds were raised the receipts failed to come up to expectations. The merchants however have promised contributions which will help materially towards meeting the trip expenses.

Sonny Richards, manager of the Grand Union hotel, gave the band a real boost when he came through with hotel accommodation at Calgary for two days, July 7 and 8. 36 members will make the trip. Both the Coleman and Empire hotels have given donations towards the trip.

Bandmaster Fred Beddington is sparing no effort at practices to make the band the best that has ever represented the Pass in the Calgary Stampede. Weather permitting he will again have the band out next Sunday evening.

Persons desirous of contributing to the fund can easily do so by contacting secretary V. Colagrosso. Thanks is expressed to those citizens who bought tags last week-end.

THRIFT TICKETS NEW INNOVATION AT COLE'S THEATRES

Regular theatre patrons in the Pass towns are now being given the chance to save themselves some money. Mr. Cole has placed on sale at all Pass theatres thrift tickets. These tickets are sold in books of six for $2.00. At the present rate of admission the purchaser of thrift tickets receives one free show in every six, as buying six single admissions would cost $2.40. These books are expected to enjoy popular sale among many theatre goers.

Cemetery Again Discussed By Council

Committee to Inspect Cemetery Approaches and Grounds at Week-End; Accounts Passed.

Regular meeting of the council was held on Tuesday evening. Present Mayor Ambrose, Councilors Abousaffy, Balloch, Dutil, Ford and Jenkins.

Ernie Houghton was present and brought to the council's attention that the south fence at the union cemetery had fallen down and that crows had done severe damage to a number of graves by destroying flowers and plants. He also stated that on many occasions the gate had been left open. He suggested that the large gate be padlocked and the key kept by the Undertaker. The flat below the Union cemetery had been sent at once to allow for parking space and prohibit cars from entering the union cemetery.

Complaint had been made earlier on Tuesday regarding the cemetery fence and Foreman John Nikitak had been sent at once to make repairs. A committee will visit the cemetery on Sunday morning with a view to making certain improvements.

A letter was received from the local hand asking for a donation with which to enable the band members to take part in Calgary Stampede parade. Council gave the band a $50 grant last month and as a result it was decided not to give a further grant.

Medical health officers' report revealed that a measles epidemic was prevalent in Coleman. A number of vaccinations had been made.

Two forms were received from the provincial government which had to be filled out thereby granting tax exemption on property owned by two local soldiers.

A petition was received from parties on Third street, asking that drainage on that street be improved. Works and property committee will investigate.

Donating a house, Ford and Dutil were delegated to attend the provincial municipal convention to be held at the Palliser hotel, Calgary, Thursday and Friday of this week.

The wooden sidewalk in front of the 2nd floor residence on Second street will be repaired. Council's attention was also drawn to the condition of the concrete sidewalk lying alongside Dr. Rose's property.

The Red Cross asked permission to install a double socket in the council chamber in order to facilitate Red Cross sewing work.

A letter was received from John Salvador stating he was now at work with a fleet of trucks hauling coal from a point behind the Blairmore mine to the Blairmore tippie. Due to the heavy work involved the trucks would have to be kept in good repair. He wished to give the repair business to Coleman firms but since work on his trucks could only be done at night he was prevented from giving this business to Coleman owing to a by-law which forbade mechanics working after 6 p.m. In the interests of the war effort and local business he asked if the council could see fit to allow his trucks to be repaired at night, for which he was prepared to pay time and a half for overtime. The license committee will investigate.

KIMBERLEY TRIM PUCKSTERS 19-4

Locals Get Bad Game Out of System; Largest Crowd of Season Disappointed in Last-Sided Game.

What was expected to be the best game of the season to date proved to be the worst. Pucksters had one of those games when they could do nothing right, and Kimberley gave them the worst trouncing they have suffered in many years, the score being 19-4.

Five local pitchers were sent in to stem the torrid batting power of the visitors. Kimberley scored nine runs in the second, four in the sixth and six runs in the seventh inning, to take a 19-1 lead. Pucksters scored three times in the last two innings.

The best crowd of the season was on hand to watch the game and were disappointed in Pucksters being so badly off form.

Fred Beddington's Bird Wins 505 Miles Race From Waterways

J. Anderson Wins Nomination Deal; Will Fly for C.N.P. Championship Soon.

The sixth race of the season was flown from Waterways, 505 miles airline, and again, as has been the case in almost every race this year, the birds had very rough and wet weather to contend with.

The birds were given an early liberation, 3 a.m. on Thursday, June 19, and high hopes were held that winners would be clocked in the same morning. However, with reports of heavy rains in Edmonton and Calgary districts these hopes were dashed.

The first bird was clocked in by Fred Beddington at 9:30 a.m. the next day, winning the Bill Bell Memorial Trophy and old birds championship of the Coleman club and a healthy supporting cash prize donated by Sonny Richards of the Grand Union hotel.

The next bird was clocked in 10 a.m. by W. Roughhead to win second place. J. Anderson clocked in at 8:30 p.m. for third place and C. Makin clocked for fourth place at 9:30 Saturday morning.

Detailed results of the race are as follows:
Open race: 1. F. Beddington, 2. W. Roughhead, 3. J. Anderson, 4. C. Makin.

Compulsory pool: 1. F. Beddington, 2. W. Roughhead.
Nomination pool: 1. J. Anderson, 2. W. Roughhead.

Prize for the open race were the Bill Bell Memorial Cup and supporting prize donated by the Grand Union hotel, and valuable prizes donated by Coleman Hardware & Furniture Co., the Palace Theatre and Holy's Grocery.

The next race will be for the Dr. R. K. Lillie cup and championship of the Crows Nest Pass. The race date has not yet been decided, but the race point will again be Waterways.

Victory Loan Drive Nets $110,000

Committee Pleased With Response; H. C. McBurney, Unit Organizer, Thanks Subscribers

Coleman citizens went "over the top" in great style in the Victory Loan 1941. When the campaign closed on Saturday evening a grand total of $110,000 had been subscribed. This more than doubled the original quota of $55,000 which was passed in the first week.

It was both gratifying to the committee and canvassers to have the Coleman public so solidly behind the loan. It made the work much easier and also showed how much the citizens were behind the war effort. Canvassers report being cordially received at all homes and while everyone did not subscribe, in the large majority of cases it was known that such parties were not in a financial position to do so. Elsewhere in this page Unit Organizer McBurney expresses his thanks to the citizens for co-operation and support.

TO THE INVESTORS OF VICTORY BONDS IN COLEMAN AND THE GENERAL PUBLIC

On behalf of the Victory Loan 1941, Coleman committee and canvassers, I would desire to express my appreciation to all subscribers to this loan in Coleman who made it possible for us to get the very excellent sum of $110,000.

I especially wish to thank the investors for the kindly way in which they received our canvassers, enabling them to conduct a successful and speedy campaign.

I think Coleman should be proud of this magnificent sum which was raised in a general canvass.

HERMIE GRUHN NOW WORKING IN PORT ARTHUR

Regina Rangers, 1940-41 Allan Cup winners, had twelve players and a coach at the end of the Allan cup play-downs this spring. Today not one member of the team remains in Regina. Writing in the Toronto Star, Ken McConnell has this to say about Hermie Gruhn, former member of the local senior team: "Hermie Gruhn, one of the big heroes of the series in which Regina defeated the Sydney Millionaires, is going to work in Port Arthur and presumably will play senior hockey there."

Nazi "Christianity"

To-day the people of Canada are permitted to worship God in the manner which conforms to their personal beliefs. That is a heritage which they possess as one of the dearly purchased liberties by their forebears, along with the right to espouse any form of political, economic and social doctrines they may see fit. To-morrow what?

Thousands of people who crossed the broad waters to make this Canada the home of their choice, did so because they valued highly the privilege of religious freedom. What will become of this precious right if the ambition of Hitler and his Nazi hordes is allowed to prevail on this continent? And world domination is Hitler's ultimate objective? It is clearly set forth in Mein Kampf beyond dispute. Even now, he is well on the road pressing towards this goal, and will reach it unless he can be stopped.

It is of vital importance that the people of this country consider well what will happen to them and their cherished liberties, including religious freedom, unless Hitler is stopped in his tracks before it is too late. It is well to contemplate the type of "Christianity" that Canadians will be forced to accept if Hitler's will prevails. It is set forth in a manifesto published in "The National Church," organ of the National Church Union of German Christians, and reads in part as follows:

"For us only one God exists, Who existed from the very beginning of time and Whom we have reached again through National Socialism. We say: In obeying Adolf Hitler, we are obeying our Lord God. Obedience to this omnipotent authority must be subjugated and wiped out, for it is obvious that this doctrine and Christianity as we know it cannot exist side by side.

What It Means

There can be no misconception as to the meaning of this manifesto. It means, in effect, that every word uttered by Adolf Hitler is the word of God, as such, must be implicitly obeyed. It means that Hitler and Germany are the keystones of the spiritual world and those who do not bow to this omnipotent authority must be subjugated and wiped out, for it is obvious that this doctrine and Christianity as we know it cannot exist side by side.

Hitler has announced his determination to dominate the world and to choke this doctrine down the throats of every nation in the world. Those who resist must perish. There is no alternative.

And how is this "Christian" doctrine manifesting itself in actual practice? One has only to look at what is going in the countries already dominated by the Nazis to appreciate what is in store for Canada, if the Nazi religion is permitted to fasten its slimy tentacles around the people of this country. The "Christian" National Socialism of Nazi Germany is partially operating in some of the subjugated countries and in others is in full force and effect.

Poland affords an excellent illustration of the practical application of Nazi Christianity, as the following release from the Polish Information Bureau demonstrates:

"Nazis are driving panic-stricken Poles from their homes in Polish territories now incorporated in the German Reich. The deportations affect all districts, all classes of people. In the districts of Gostynin and Kutno small landowners have been expropriated, landless peasants driven out. Five hundred persons, Polish business men and merchants, were expropriated in Kutno in one night. Children were separated from their parents and taken into the Reich.

"Throughout the most severe part of last winter, deportation from the Pomorze province of Lodz and Poznan continued. From the small district of Kosciuszko, 800 peasants were taken to the General Government in cattle trucks. Their journey to Zamost lasted five weeks during which they received no cooked food and remained endless periods at wayside stations where 40 children died.

"Out of one single transport of 1,200 Poles from the west to Piotrkow, 229 children died, besides several adults. Only 17 children survived the journey."

That is Nazi "Christianity," with Herr Hitler as the mouthpiece of its God, in action.

Sacrifices Essential

It is true that the full force and severity of Nazi "Christianity" has not yet been applied to some of the other subjugated countries, but that is only because political policy has dictated the wisdom of proceeding more slowly to those countries. If the chains of Hitlerism remained fastened upon them indefinitely, there is no reason to suppose that they, too, will not ultimately feel the full weight of Nazi religious doctrine, unless their people are prepared to bow down and worship the Nazi God.

Is there any reason to suppose that the same fate is not in store for Canadians, when the time comes? And the time will come, unless the people of this country are willing to sacrifice to the limit imperatively.

Big Business

A six-foot five soldier stepped up to a shoe-shining stand and called: "Shine, please, boy!"

The bootblack looked down at the vast expanse of boots before him and shook his head questionably. Then a determined look covered his face.

"Hey, Bert," he called to another boy, "Gimme a hand!" I've got an army contract!"

Not Superstitious

On (Friday the 13th), Marjorie Smith gave up Iowa driver's license No. 13. She says she isn't superstitious, but since obtaining the license two years ago she figured in two auto accidents; underwent two operations; suffered extensive burns on one arm while cooking; lost some valuables when her apartment was entered and robbed.

A lot of schools and universities are putting on classes in citizenship, but if you read the papers every day, pay your taxes and keep smiling you will graduate.

The Only Question

Is How Long Strength Of Nazi Machine Will Last

While you should not underestimate Hitler, you need not overrate him either. His strength is going. His power is on the wane. He is destined for extermination just as surely as any rat that runs along the street gutter. The only question is how long?

This can be a short war or a very long one. It depends on us. It depends entirely on the force and speed with which we hit him now in the place where he is vulnerable.

And the most vulnerable place is Germany. Every German killed in Germany in the next few weeks will spread far greater terror there than a thousand Germans slain in the Balkans or even in the Atlantic.

Every factory, every house tumbled down in a German town is an omen of defeat. Every bomb that crashes in a street will sound like the crack of doom.

Remember that all middle-aged and elderly people in Germany to-day know what defeat means. They remember the awful days of the early 'twenties. Many of them know what it means to be plunged from comfort to complete destitution in a day and to be driven from a well-laden table to subsist on acorns in woods.

If Germans can suddenly be made to realize that instead of victory, instead of the conquest of the world, defeat is once more possible, crashing, complete defeat, we may well see such a wave of terror sweep across the Reich as has no parallel in human history.

For the Germans to-day know that there is no forgiveness this time. They are not the Herrenfolk but the hated folk. They know that the wrath that will raise when Poles, Norwegians, Czechs, Dutch, Belgians, and even British are let loose among them will take some assuaging. All sane Germans know that they are going to be the parish dogs of civilization for the next generation.

It is our business now to make that fear work for us by turning it into hate for the men who brought them to such a terrible fate. To make them realize that the way to mercy for themselves is for them to destroy the destroyers.—London Sunday Express.

Efficiency Is Uncanny

Machine Invented By U.S. Statistician Compiles Census Records

The census was pretty much of a hit-or-miss affair in its infancy. To-day, however, the modern uncanny efficiency of the machine has been called upon to iron out, as far as possible, the factor of human error.

Slowness of census compilation inspired Dr. Hollerith, a statistician employed in the United States' census of 1880, to invent a punched card system of sorting and tabulating. First used in the census of 1890 in the U.S., it showed that it saved a quarter of the time in transcribing records and was eight times faster than any system of hand tabulation.

Machines were first used in Canada in the census of 1911 and by 1931 experiments conducted by the Bureau of Statistics had resulted in development of a combined sorter-tabulator especially fitted to compile and analyze census data. These machines have been improved still further since 1931. For this census there will be six machines, each handling 45 columns of facts, while in 1931 there were four machines handling 24 columns. One of the most amazing machines to be used is the electric verifier, which checks upon the accuracy of information punched on the cards. It throws out automatically cards containing inconsistent facts; for instance, married and of too low an age for this to be possible, resident in Canada less than five years and naturalized, etc. "Amusingly enough," states the bank pamphlet, "it will reject a card which records that a married woman living with her husband is the 'head of the family,' for this is inconsistent with census definitions."

Still At Old Stand

English Firm Has Been In Business For 156 Years

A. R. Baker straightened his six foot one inch frame of English dignity to its fullest and told Montreal newsmen with quiet emphasis: "My firm has been in business since 1785 and we're certainly not going to let a blitz interfere with it now."

His office near St. Paul's Cathedral in the heart of London, had been lucky. "We are now fairly isolated, the adjoining buildings having been blitzed, but we are able to carry on."

Blitz Buggy

Light Armored Scout Car Has Speed Up To 80 Miles An Hour

The Canadian army is studying one of the most terrifying adaptations of the internal combustion engine to warfare that can be imagined. It is the light, armored scout car with speed up to 80 miles per hour. This car would certainly supersede the motorcycle shock troops developed by the German army to cut the Polish and French armies loose from their moorings in earlier campaigns of this war.

The Canadian army, we found, has its eyes on two types, the American scout and reconnaissance car and the British Daimler scout car.

A group of parliamentarians saw both types of combat car during a visit to Petawawa Camp recently. A low little United States scout car went through its paces over a tough, rough range dotted with thickets, while the visitors watched from a nearby hillside. It stole the show, and the members of Parliament came away talking, like the officer of Petawawa, in very affectionate terms of the "blitz buggy."

Later the blitz buggy was demonstrated in a sand pit, and Hon. J. L. Ralston and F. D. MacKenzie, Neepawa M.P., went aboard as passengers. This is something to watch for in the news reels, but what the movies have taken of the blitz buggy at Petawawa will not show us how terrifying it would be coming at full speed against you, if you happened to be a German soldier on guard at some vital point.

The blitz buggy is not an automobile, it is a projectile.—By B.T.R., in the Winnipeg Free Press.

Having A Tough Time

Dogs In England Are Eating Quercus Kind Of Food

He is having a tough time. Seriously as the shortage of food has been for English men, women and children, it has been much more serious for the unfortunate dog. Here is a recipe for dog food, taken from the Dogs' Bulletin, the journal of the National Canadian Defence League: "Wash and cut up peels of root vegetables and outer leaves of greens; stew gently in enough water to cover until tender; the addition of a bone or two, or a lump of dripping, is an improvement. Add enough coarse oatmeal to thicken, and stir well for a minute or so over the fire." Over 100,000 people have already written for the recipe and are trying to keep their four-footed friend, the dog, from too much hunger.—Our Dumb Animals.

Bomb Battered Britons Are Strong For Good Music

Jack Hyllon, British jazz band leader, is setting the public classical music—much of it German—and bomb-battered Britons are shouting for more.

Hyllon recently took the aristocratic London Philharmonic orchestra on a round of the provinces, playing vaudeville and moving picture theatre in two-a-night stands. On its return to the capital, the orchestra played in music halls—something never done before.

The orchestra, directed by Dr. Malcolm Sargent, now gives concerts at the Coliseum—a music hall, or vaudeville house—into which crowds of Londoners pack each night.

Sister Of Capt. Fogarty Fegen Of The Jervis Bay Receives Coveted Honor

The Victoria Cross conferred posthumously on Capt. Edward Fogarty Fegen of the Jervis Bay has been presented by the King to Miss N. Fegen, sister of the gallant commander.

The merchant cruiser captain went down with his ship in the Atlantic last Nov. 5 in a fight which saved most of a convoy from a raiding German pocket battleship.

Miss Fegen received the V.C. at a recent investiture and His Majesty, who told her he had met several of the 65 survivors of the Jervis Bay, said he had been moved by the story of her brother's heroism.

Pledges British Aid To Russia In The Fight Against Nazis

London.—Prime Minister Churchill, in a world-wide radio broadcast, pledged British aid to Russia in fighting the Nazi German war machine that invaded Soviet territory.

Mr. Churchill, in announcing the policy of the government on the suddenly-developed struggle between Nazism and Communism, asserted there had been no more consistent opponent of Communism than he but, above all, the Nazis must be "swept away."

Britain's policy is to destroy Hitler and every vestige of his regime. Britain would never negotiate with Hitler.

"Russia's danger is our danger, and the danger of the United States," he said.

"Any man or state who fights against Hitler will have our aid. Those who fight with Hitler he described as Britain's enemies, though he made no mention of Finland and Rumania whose armies are joined with the Nazis in the attack on Russia.

"We shall give whatever help we can to Russia and the Russian people," the prime minister said.

Technical and economic assistance will be offered to Russia and Germany will be bombed by day and night while the fight continues.

Hitler, he continued, wishes to destroy Russia because he hopes that with his campaign concluded he will be free to hurl his army against the British Isles "which he must do."

Mr. Churchill pictured the poor people of Russia striving to guard their hard-won bread from the aggressor. He predicted "a famine without example in human history" if Hitler should win.

Yet all this would be "only a stepping-stone to the attempt to plunge the 400 or 500 millions who live in China and the 350,000,000 who live in India, into that bottomless pit of human degradation over which the diabolic emblem of the swastika flunts itself."

Thus, he commented, "it is not too much to say here this summer evening that the lives and the happiness of a thousand million additional human beings now are menaced with brutal Nazi violence. This is enough to make us hold our breath."

Long Service In Army

Montreal.—Brig.-Gen. F. S. Meighan, honorary colonel of the Canadian Grenadier Guards, has been raised to the rank of major-general in an honorary capacity for long service to the Canadian militia. Gen. Meighan enlisted in the Canadian army May 22, 1891.

Records Earthquake

Ottawa.—An earthquake of moderate intensity was registered at the Dominion observatory June 18th, and distance from the epicentre was placed at 1,875 miles. No determination could be made of the direction. Instruments continued to record tremors for an hour.

Britain Maintaining Close Watch On Any Attempted Invasion

London.—Indicating that Britain is not being lulled into any feeling of false security by Nazi forces and activity in the Middle East and the present fog of Russian-German rumor, there came an ominous warning from qualified sources that Britons may expect to receive "some terrific blow this summer."

As was the case last spring, when similar warnings were given, Lord Beaverbrook's newspapers have again brought the invasion theme to their front pages.

Coupled with this recurrence of invasion there are several concrete indications. For nine nights in a row the Royal Air Force blasted Boulogne and the so-called "invasion ports" along the German-held coast of France, military encampments in the R.A.F., coastal shipping has been vigorously attacked.

This can only mean, observers say, what it has meant in the past—concentration of Nazi forces and ships in the important channel ports which have been found out by Britain's "eyes," her reconnaissance craft, and attacked by Britain's heavy bombers.

Bombs On Dublin

Germans Admit They Dropped A Few On May 31st

London.—An Exchange Telegraph despatch from Dublin said the Irish information bureau had issued a statement saying Germany admits responsibility for the bombing of the capital of Eire on the night of May 31.

The Eire government's announcement said it had been informed by the Germans as follows: "The thorough investigations made by competent German authorities concerning the dropping of bombs on Dublin May 31 now establishes the responsibility of German aircraft."

"It has been ascertained a German aircraft flew over the east Irish coast by mistake in the early morning of May 31. The aircraft changed its course as soon as it recognized it was over Irish territory but in any case it did not drop any bombs."

"Since, however, the Irish government have stated their investigations have shown that bombs dropped on Dublin were of German origin and as a very strong wind was prevailing at high altitudes on the night in question it may have driven aircraft over the east Irish coast without the knowledge of the pilot."

More Co-operation

Want More Equitable Exchange Of Products Between Provinces

Fredricton.—Federated Women's Institutes of Canada decided to ask the federal government to co-operate with provincial governments in considering a more equitable exchange of products interprovincially by adjusting freight rates and regulating exchange of goods. Delegates said people on the prairies would like to trade grains and dairy products for fruits from provinces which grow them and to make other exchanges where possible.

Many Tourists

Interest In Canada As A Vacation Land Is Increasing

Ottawa.—United States interest in Canada as a vacation land is approaching in volume the record year of 1937 when 107,000 inquiries were received, according to figures made public by D. Leo Dolan, chief of the Canadian travel bureau of the national war services department.

Since the first of this year the bureau has received 61,617 inquiries and they are arriving at an increasing rate, he said.

Made Thrilling Escape

London.—A royal marine officer with a "considerable number" of troops were reported here to have escaped from Crete to Egypt in a British flat-bottom motor barge. The group made the 230-mile voyage in a week, it was said.

German Morale

Increased British Bombing On Belch Ports Will Have Effect

Boston.—Viscount Halifax said that if Hitler "goes prancing into Russia" after failing to bring the British campaign to a decisive stage, a break in the morale of the German armies will occur through worry over increased British bombing of their homeland.

Declaring the increasing production of American long-range bombers would enable the Royal Air Force to set up its attacks on the inner reich, particularly if Nazi attention is partly diverted to Russia, the British ambassador said in an interview: "The time will come when the German army will begin to realize that its homes, its families, its industries are being bombed more and more, and at some point the army will begin to ask 'Where is the end of this?' Nothing has a worse effect on the morale of armies than being perpetually mobilized in hostile countries."

Ferry Pilots

Receive $1,500 A Month For Flying Bombers Across Atlantic

New York.—W. G. Gollen, western division chief pilot for Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., announced that he and two other pilots would tour the country to seek and train aviators to ferry bombers across the Atlantic to Britain.

Gollen said he would interview his first group of applicants at Kansas City, Mo., and others later in New York, Chicago, Los Angeles, Cleveland, Pittsburgh, Washington and Minneapolis.

Qualified pilots, with a minimum of 600 hours of flying (400 for co-pilots) will receive $1,500 a month and bonuses—$2,500 after each 10 round trips and an extra $5,000 after 20. Co-pilots will receive $1,200 a month and navigators $900 with 10-trip bonuses of $2,000 and $1,200, respectively, and 24-trip extra rewards of $4,000 and 2,400.

Refuse To Wear Uniform

Interment Outfit Does Not Appeal To German Officers

Somewhere in Ontario.—Col. Hubert Stethem, director of interment camps for Canada, told a group of visiting United States newspapermen here that German officers, who generally have given the most trouble in the camps, refuse even to wear an interment outfit bearing the Nazi swastika.

Authorities provide an interment outfit of blue denim with a red circle blown into the back of the shirt and a red stripe down the pant leg.

The officers have refused to wear the uniform. The Canadian authorities offered to mark the shirt with a white circle with a black swastika but the officers still refused.

Japs Are Persistent

Tokyo.—The Japanese government voiced its determination to attempt to participate in aviation, shipping and communications in the Netherlands East Indies on an equal footing with United States and Great Britain after acknowledging a breakdown in present negotiations with the Netherlands government.

Building New Dam

The Pas, Man.—Premier John Bracken announced that work soon will be started on construction of a combined bridge and dam over The Pas river. The project, designed to improve feeding grounds for wild animals, will be financed jointly by the Manitoba government and Ducks Unlimited.

BACK TO AID WAR EFFORT

Reginald B. Jackson for 10 years, director of commercial aviation for the Thailand government, returned to his Edmonton home recently, to aid in Canada's war effort. He says Japan's hand is being stayed from attacks on British possessions in the Orient because of uncertainty as to what action the U.S. Pacific fleet might take.

To Train In Canada

Organization Of A Polish Army Has Been Arranged

Toronto.—Stanislas Mikolajczyk, acting vice-president of the republic of Poland, arrived here to be present with Gen. Wladyslaw Sikorski in conference with government leaders here.

Mikolajczyk said that the largest concentrated Polish population in the world outside the city of Warsaw, in Chicago and that organization of a Polish army on this continent has definitely been arranged. Camps will be operated at Windsor, Ont., and Owen Sound, Ont., and most of the recruits are expected to come from the United States.

The majority of Polish residents in Canada have become Canadian citizens, Mikolajczyk said, and could not join any forces other than Canadian. The restriction does not apply in the United States, however, and he expected large numbers to enlist.

Without Direct Heir

Title Bestowed On Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett May Become Extinct

London.—The title bestowed on Rt. Hon. R. B. Bennett likely will become extinct when he dies.

Without direct heir, the only way the title could be continued for the former Canadian prime minister's next in kin would be by "special remainder"—a rarely granted honor by which the title would be inherited by indirect heir or heirs.

A remainder granted by the sovereign is considered an even higher honor than the original title and has been granted only a few times in the last half century, notably Earl Kitchener and Earl Roberts.

Royal Family Firewatchers

London.—The King and all the members of the royal family have registered as firewatchers in the city of Westminster where Buckingham Palace is situated. When compulsory fire-watching was introduced on the premises of the palace the King insisted that the royal residence be registered in the same way as other buildings.

U.S. Naval Air Bases

Washington.—Navy Secretary Knox announced that United States naval air bases in the Bermuda Islands and Newfoundland would be commissioned in the next two to four weeks.

Shipping Losses On Atlantic Are Reported As Continuing Heavy

London.—Britain announced shipping losses of 461,328 tons for May, a drop of close to 120,000 tons from the April total despite the toll of the battle for Crete, and estimated her blows at the smaller maritime resources of the Axis had cost Germany and Italy 299,000 tons in the month. New, corrected figures for Britain's April losses made that the most disastrous month of this war, with a total of 581,251 tons destroyed.

Corrected figures for other months this year were: January, 309,731; February, 339,833; and March, 505,750.

The May figures, together with the corrected reports for the preceding months, showed exactly 500 British, allied and neutral ships reported lost so far this year.

The corrected April losses of 581,251 tons were the heaviest reported for a single month in this war, but far below the first Great War's record of April, 1917, when destruction totalled 545,282 tons of British vessels and 329,825 tons of Allied ships. The Admiralty's announcement of April losses prior to the correction put the figure at 488,000 tons.

Until these corrected figures were disclosed, the heaviest British, allied and neutral losses for a single month in this war were 533,902 tons in June, 1940, which included substantial tonnage destroyed in the Dunkirk evacuation.

Despite the Admiralty's reference to the inclusion in the May figures of tonnage lost in "military operations" of the Eastern Mediterranean, authorities stressed that the figures were strictly mercantile tonnage and excluded warships.

Although the Admiralty's figures showed an overall decrease of 119,823 tons in losses during May, the tonnage sunk in the Battle of the Atlantic itself was said authoritatively to have increased over the previous month. Specific figures were refused but it was indicated that the general decrease was due to a slackening of sea warfare in other areas, not in the Atlantic.

Authoritative sources said the total of British, Allied and neutral losses for the war to the end of May was 1,439 ships of 6,702,807 tons with the breakdown as follows: British, 1,008 ships of 4,302,445 tons; Allied, 314 ships of 1,441,543 tons and neutral, 317 ships of 988,819 tons.

These sources said that losses over the past 12 months had averaged 441,740 tons.

The May losses were listed at 98 vessels. In citing the May tonnage of 461,328, the Admiralty said the Axis had claimed 861,460.

The Admiralty said sinkings of German and Italian vessels and of ships "useful to the enemy" during May were estimated at 299,000 tons and that the total of these sinkings from the beginning of the war to June 10 was estimated at 3,211,990 tons—1,888,000 tons of German ships, 1,293,000 Italian and 84,900 "useful to the enemy."

The surmise that more German submarines were at work on the vital Atlantic commerce lanes, one source said, is based on "all figures, including the number of attacks made by our defenses against submarines, the number of targets our shipping has presented, the number of known losses of our ships and the 'kills' of U-boats."

These sources said a number of newly-acquired United States coast guard cutters are operating in the Atlantic and are proving to be "very fine ships."

They reported an improvement in one area of the Atlantic battleground which formerly was a profitable hunting ground for submarines and declared the German undersea and air raiders had been compelled to change their tactics and go further afield.

(A. V. Alexander, First Lord of the Admiralty, in a speech June 17 identified the area where improvement has been noted as the "north-west approaches" to Britain.)

Germany Needs More Oil

Although Immediate War And Industrial Needs Can Be Met

Washington.—The Foreign Policy Association said that Germany has sufficient oil to meet its immediate war and industrial needs, but cannot hope to organize Europe's economy successfully without additional oil resources.

"It is not an immediate need, therefore, which may have dictated the recent German drive toward Iraq and Iran," a report of the private research organization said, "but the desire to secure adequate supplies for the new German empire in Europe." The report was prepared by Louis E. Frechtling.

Germany's present requirements, of approximately 55,000 barrels a year, the report added, are "just covered by production in western Europe of synthetic and crude oil and imports from Rumania and Russia."

Seize Italian Ship

Washington.—The maritime commission announced it had taken formal possession of the Clara, 6,131 tons, first of the 28 sabotaged Italian ships laid up in United States waters. Six Danish vessels were also taken over.

General Increase In Canadian War Effort Has Been Planned

Ottawa.—A general enlargement of the Canadian war effort both in the training of manpower and production of materials is expected shortly.

It is understood efforts will be made to reduce consumption of gasoline and oil, and that manufacture of automobiles and other mechanical equipment for non-war use will be further restricted.

Many other administrative measures are awaiting decision, including the appointment of ministers to Brazil and the Argentine, both of which have already sent their ministers to Canada in the exchange agreed upon last winter.

Preparations for construction of huge, four-motored bombers of the "Liberator" type, in the Canada Car and Foundry plant at Fort William, is understood to be waiting only the go ahead signal once the license has been obtained from the United States and arrangements completed with the company.

Although there have been no official pronouncements it is reported unofficially that the air training plan will be greatly enlarged with a long-range program to sharply increase the output of trained air personnel.

Canada's role in the battles of Libya and other parts of Africa as a manufacturer of motor vehicles and other supplies is indicated in export figures for May released by the Dominion bureau of statistics.

Last month Canadian exports to Egypt were valued at $11,130,000 against an aggregate to their vital war theatre of only $206,000, in May, 1940. The first five months of the year, up to the end of May, exports to Egypt totalled $16,686,000 against an aggregate to this first five months of 1940.

It is understood the phenomenal increase is largely due to the use of Canadian trucks and other vehicles by the army of the Nile in its offensives against the enemy in Libya and its defensive operations for the protection of Egypt and the Suez canal.

Figures on exports by countries of destination in May show other sharp contrasts to those of a year ago as a result of the trend of war.

Canadian exports to Japan dropped from $380,000 in May 1940, to $119,000 last month. By contrast, the Netherlands East Indies with which Japan is seeking to establish closer trade relations took $120,000 worth of Canadian goods last month against $83,000 in May, 1940.

British East Africa got $660,000 of goods against $43,000 in May, 1940; Southern Rhodesia, $230,000 worth against $185,000; British West Africa, $98,000 worth against $47,000.

The total for the month was $161,630,000 against $109,853,000 a year ago. Shipments to both the United Kingdom and the United States were up as were shipments to most Empire countries and countries in the western hemisphere.

NOTES AND COMMENTS

HITLER says he will be in Moscow in six weeks, even less. His lightning conquests of Poland and France and lesser European nations apparently have encouraged him to tackle the Russian Bear, enigmatic always in international politics. Foolish indeed is he who would prophesy the outcome of the conflict between these totalitarian nations, each ruled by a dictator. Hitler so far has gained every objective on which he has set his mind. His lust for conquest and power has become insatiable because of these successes. The only stumbling block in his great vision of European domination has been Britain. It may be the last desperate throw of the gambler's dice because of the thwarting of his ambition to conquer Britain, that he has decided to make war on Russia to divert the minds of the German people from his promise to them that it would be a speedy war, out of which Germany would emerge triumphant over all Europe, including the United Kingdom of Great Britain, separated only from German occupied France by a 21-mile stretch of water.

PROBLEMATIC though the outcome may be between these totalitarian countries, it cannot but be of benefit to Britain in diverting Germany's activities to other fronts. Politics it has oft been said makes strange bed-fellows. So it is with this war. Democratic Britain through its dynamic prime minister, Winston Churchill, has pledged support to Russia. His declaration in turn has received the approval of the United States through President Roosevelt. These expressions of support are not to be interpreted as support of Communism, but as common action against a ruthless international gangster whose pledged word counts for naught. A record of lies and treachery on the part of Hitler and his accomplices emblazons to the world that this terrifying influence in world affairs must be purged from existence before we can return to peaceful pursuits and the resumption of international friendship. Why such an upheaval should occur nobody can satisfactorily explain. Democratic nations pray to God for peace in our time, yet the evil machinations of those who deny God appear to flourish. It's beyond comprehension. Yet the struggle must continue, if righteousness and human and kindly feeling is to remain supreme, as it eventually will, long though the struggle may be.

CANADA'S Victory Loan strikingly demonstrates the determination of its people to back up the mother country in its heroic struggle. Inspiring indeed is the response of Canada, of Australia, New Zealand, South Africa and colonies of Great Britain to put forth every effort to support the people of Britain. They have suffered, yet instead of becoming demoralized as Hitler hoped they would, their determination has become strengthened to win or die. Assistance of the United States will increase, for it has been brought home to the majority in that great nation that the defeat of Britain would constitute a dangerous threat to their ideals of Democracy, the "home of the brave and the free." As we approach the end of the second year of war, our confidence is renewed in victory.

A Token Of Friendship

Battle Between Peru And Chile In 1879 Was Unique

Perhaps the only battle in history which has become a token of friendship between the former enemies is the so-called "Combat of Iquique," of May 11, 1879, says an item in the Chilean Press Service. The wooden Chilean corvette "Esmeralda" was sunk by the Peruvian ironclad monitor "Huascar" after four hours of deadly fight. The Esmeralda fired her last shot with her last cannon and disappeared under the waves, with her flag nailed to the mast. Captain Arturo Prat was killed when he boarded the enemy ship with a few of his heroic sailors. The Peruvian Commander Grau was the winner. Both a gallant mariner and a knightly warrior, his memory is sacred to Peruvians and highly respected by Chileans. The latter have ever since celebrated their defeat as a most glorious one which pointed toward final victory. Peruvians do also celebrate their success in the combat. Chilean representatives and a few Chilean veterans attend to the Peruvian celebrations in Lima. Peruvians are never absent from the Chilean festivities.

Three War Tips

Speaking at Eastbourne, Viscount Simon, the Lord Chancellor, said the war was not going to be won or lost in the Near East or the Mediterranean. We had to think of the Battle of the Atlantic, the battle round our shores, invasion, if it came. He gave these three win-the-war tips: Face facts; have a sense of proportion; redouble efforts at home.

Pool Their Facilities

Four Plants To Be Engaged In Building Flying Fortresses

Three aircraft manufacturers—Boeing, Douglas and Vega—have pooled their facilities to make "flying fortresses," and army authorities predicted that production would be "substantially increased."

They declined to reveal figures. But it was pointed out that four plants instead of one will assemble the four-motored, long-range bombers, a type of plane on which both the United States and Great Britain are placing particular emphasis.

Formerly, only Boeing made flying fortresses.

Boeing will supply the other companies with complete tooling lists and detailed drawings of jigs and tools. The co-operating companies, however, will exercise their own judgment as to whether to adopt these methods, or modify them to their own needs.

By developing a dual source of supply for fabricated parts, the companies will arrange to have "standby tools" available to produce parts in alternate localities, or by similar methods insure that production will not be interrupted by the failure of one supply source.

Boeing already has begun to furnish blueprints and master templates, which the other firms are copying.

The pool was formed at the request of the War Department, and after two weeks of conferences directed by the Army Air Corps.

Sixty technicians from the three companies already have assembled to draft a construction program in advance of placing orders for raw materials.

BECOMING DRESS HAS HIP-YOKE

By Anne Adams

Of course you can enjoy young fashion ideas—no matter what your age or size may be! Anne Adams proves this point nicely in Pattern 4772, by employing one of the smartest new-season style features to smooth down your surplus proportions. She uses a deep hip-yoke to make you look marvelously slim about the hips. Notice how the yoke forms one piece with each side of the front bodice, giving a long-waisted effect. The slim lines are continued in the skirt, with a smart panel down the front. You'll like the casual young air of the bloused bodice, with its softness gathered-in above the hip-yoking and held-in by darts at the shoulders. Tailored, trim revers make a cool, deep V-shaped neckline—have them in self-fabric or crisp contrast.

Pattern 4772 is available in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Size 36 takes 3½ yards 39 inch fabric. Send twenty cents (20c) in coins (stamps cannot be accepted) for this Anne Adams pattern. Write plainly: Size, Name, Address and Style Number and send orders to the Anne Adams Pattern Dept., Winnipeg, Newspaper Union, 172 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The Early Aeroplane

Orville Wright Expresses Sadness At Use Of Invention In War

Orville Wright, who with his late brother Wilbur, gave modern flight to the world, reflects with wonder—and sadness—upon the uses to which the airplane has been put.

The Dayton, O., man who in December, 1903, soared from the sands of Kittyhawk, N.C., now is within two months of the three-score-and-ten mark.

"Just to think," he mused, "Wilbur and I flew behind a little thing of four cylinders that developed all of 40 horsepower, maybe 44."

As he spoke, Wright fingered the cylinder heads of a 1700-horsepower airplane motor weighing more than a ton—the first produced at the new Wright Aeronautical Corporation's Lockland plant, dedication of which he saw as good of honor.

"In a sense, I guess we didn't know what we were doing when we built our first plane," he went on. "We never envisaged the plane as a terrible engine of war, certainly. But there will always be someone who will abuse anything."

Just Doing His Job

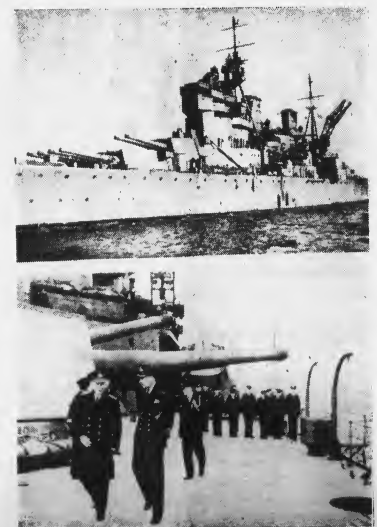

Never Blame Reporter For What Appears In Newspaper

Newspaper reporters are often asked to keep things out of the paper, or to soft pedal on some news item. The conscientious reporter will never make any promises to do this. This is the prerogative of the editor only, and the only thing a reporter can do is take the matter up with his editor. Sometimes a bribe is offered, and if one really wants to earn the ill-will of a reporter this is the surest way to do it. The newspaperman who accepts a bribe is breaking faith with his profession, and he never remains a newspaperman very long.

Reporters have a very difficult job. They are surrounded by people who want special favors that he has not the power to grant. In practically every instance the reporter is worthy of the fullest confidence. He is a hard working person who is trying to play the game, trying to serve his community, and is finding his satisfaction in life, not from the ordinary pleasures of life, but from following the most fascinating calling known to mankind. Never blame a reporter for what appears in your newspaper. He is just doing his job.—Brandon Sun.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

JUNE 29

LESSONS FROM THE EARLY CHURCH

Golden text: For other foundation can no man lay than that which is laid, which is Jesus Christ. I. Corinthians 3:11.

Lesson: I. Corinthians 3:1-15. Devotional reading: I. Corinthians 1:17-25.

Explanations and Comments

Immature Christians. I. Corinthians 3:1-4. Paul writes to the Corinthians that when he was with them he could not speak as he would have spoken to those who had attained spiritual growth, but he spoke to them as under the domination of the flesh, as mere babes in Christ, immature Christians. The Greek word translated "carnal" means "fleshy." They had been, and still were, unfit for anything but elementary instruction—he had fed them on milk, as it were, not meat. Paul's more advanced teaching is seen in Romans, Colossians, Ephesians.

God's Fellow-Workers. I. Corinthians 3:4-11. There were four parties in the church at Corinth, according to Paul's words in verse 12 of the first chapter of this letter, each called by the name of the leader, regarded as the most important; the adherents of Paul, those of Apollos and those of Cephas (Peter), and a party "of Christ," which may have arisen as a protest against calling any man the leader of the church. Here in the third chapter, Paul speaks only of two, those of Paul and Apollos.

Everyone Is Responsible for His Own Building. I. Corinthians 3:12-15. In verse nine Paul declares that his readers were "God's husbandry," a tilled field, as it were, and then changes his figure to "God's building," a figure which he continues in these verses 12-15. There is no foundation upon which a Christian may build save Jesus Christ, but he must give heed to the way in which he builds. Paul warns, "Perhaps as he wrote he thought of these words which Jesus spoke in his parable that we call The Two Foundations: 'The rain descended and the floods came and the winds blew, and beat upon that house, and it fell not; for it was founded upon the rock.'"

Every Christian is responsible for the material he uses. One builds with gold and silver and precious stones, materials that are rich and durable, while another builds with wood, hay, stubble, which quickly perish.

Britain's New Aircraft Chief

First British Pilot To Receive Certificate But Refuses To Fly

Henry Longhurst, writing in the London Sunday Express, says: "Everybody knows that the new Minister of Aircraft Production, Lieut.-Colonel John Theodore Cuthbert Moore-Brabazon, M.P., holds the first certificate ever granted to a British pilot."

Not many know that nothing short of a high explosive bomb will nowadays induce him to leave the ground. "Not until they discover a non-inflammable substitute for petrol," he says.

When, in better days, we used to go each year to play golf in Germany, he took his 24 hours by train and boat. The rest went by air in three hours.

Said Moore-Brabazon once on the future prospects of aviation: "I do not believe that any form of transport will become really popular in which if you make quite a small mistake, you go straight to the cemetery."

Some people used to tell me that this man's dry, caustic, realistic sense of humor might keep him in high office. It did not. Nor, when they made him a Minister, did it dim the sense of humor.

Here is the last paragraph of a letter he wrote me when he was Minister of Transport—

"The trains are off the lines, the grid has bad, traffic is snowed up, canals are frozen, electricity has the moth in it, transport is finished, a complete state of immobility has set in, entirely due, so I am led to believe, to the strenuous efforts of—Yours ever . . ."

I wonder how many people know that Moore-Brabazon originated the system of aerial photography on which modern reconnaissance is based.

In the early days of the last war, when the observer had to lean over the side to take pictures, nine pictures in a flight was reckoned good going.

By fixing the camera to the bottom of the plane and making various adjustments, Moore-Brabazon turned the figure to 75 per cent. When the war was over they gave him £600 for it.

Buses In Chungking

Dr. Robert S. McClure, a Canadian back from China, reports that Chungking buses "smell like a stew coming up the street" because they burn cabbage-seed oil instead of gasoline. He also said that American trucks in use on the Burma Road were causing difficulties because they could not easily be converted into charcoal burners.

Health LEAGUE of CANADA presents TOPICS OF VITAL INTEREST

DEFECTIVE TEETH

Nearly 100 per cent. of the people of Canada suffer from defective teeth, according to an article in the current issue of "Health," under the title, "Eating Your Way to Health."

"Health" points to Swiss, Eskimos, Polynesians, Maoris and others as possessors of almost perfect teeth and then examines their diets in a search for the reason. It finds that one group eats all meat and fish, while another group eats very little of such foods; some eat much grain and others consume none; the Swiss live largely on dairy products which are unavailable to the Eskimos.

The conclusion is that a people may live on the foods native to its part of the world, and have sound teeth, provided the foods are not over-refined.

Refined white flour and white sugar, says "Health," have in the past 20 years been introduced into communities in which dental decay was previously unknown, with results which it describes as "spectacular." Natives of these communities who stick to the old foods still have good teeth; those who have adopted the refined foods have bad ones. Maldevelopment of the jaws, decay and pyorrhea have all become common in such districts in a single generation.

Britain is still discussing the most nutritious flour for bread making, according to information received by the Health League of Canada. The Government is said to have ordered a standard grade of flour from which only 17 per cent. of the whole wheat berry is extracted. This is in contrast to the 27 per cent. extracted from ordinary white flour.

At the same time, it is reported to be considering the production of an actual "wholemeal" flour, from which not even the husk will be extracted, in spite of the fact that many dietitians declare that this would involve too large a proportion of roughage. The new standard bread has been produced. It is stated, not at the instigation of "food faddists" or bakers, but in response to popular demand. It will sell at the same price as white-flour bread.

To Study History

Children In Britain To Receive Courses On History Of U.S.

The British board of education has announced it is arranging a number of short courses on United States history and current problems for teachers in all types of schools.

The courses are to be arranged because the board is "impressed with the fact that British children are much less well-informed about the history, life and achievements of the United States of America than are American children about the history, life and achievements of Great Britain."

Valuable Dispatch Boxes

DAUGHTER OF DESTINY

CHAPTER XII

The sun was already high, a scalding light set directly overhead, when Devona and Dale rode back across the mesa on mounts weary and doleful enough now.

"Darling, let's not go right back to the house," Dale suggested as they came over a canyon's rim where they could see the green-flowing oasis that was Palm Springs spilled into the little valley below. "I don't want to share you with any one—not yet. Can't we have this day just to ourselves?"

"Yes—let's," Devona smiled happily, still scarcely aware that there was a real world to go back to, everyday problems to solve.

Dale sent their tired horses back to the stables by means of a smiling Mexican lad and a silver coin. Then, aimlessly, hand-in-hand, they wandered through Palm Springs' little curio shops where dark-eyed Mexican girls tried to sell them everything from serapes to hammered silver souvenirs.

"The Senora will like this, Senor," one sly, dark-eyed girl insisted, holding an exquisitely intricate silver locket in the palm of her hand. Dale grinned, turned to her. "How about it—Senora?" he teased.

Flushing, Devona tried to pretend uninterest. "It's very lovely," but not half so lovely as this playing at being Dale's—wife. Just make-believe now, for fun, of course. But some day—

Her heart beat so hard it made her hands tremble as she picked up the lovely locket, pretended to examine it closely. "Put it on, darling," Dale insisted, snapped the fastener around her neck himself when she demurred. "Like it?"

She nodded. "But Dale, please—I didn't mean—"

"I like it, too," and calmly laid green bills on the counter.

"Dale—please. You mustn't—" Her fingers fumbled with the slender clasp.

"And why not?" He caught her hands, held them prisoner. "If I want to buy you something to remember this day by, why shouldn't I?"

As if she'd need anything to make her remember this day, Devona thought, smiling. But she didn't have a chance to tell him that. The Mexican shopkeeper was back now with the change.

"Thank you, Senor. I'm sure Senora will always like the locket." Dale grinned, nodded. "Sure she will. Come on—Senora," he said and laughed aloud when she flushed again, rosily.

They had dinner in an hilarious little Mexican restaurant on the edge of the palm-green oasis. A crowded, noisy, little place where they were alone. Clorously alone, worlds away from the laughing Mexicans, the noisy tourists that elbowed them.

Devona had no idea what they were eating. She was only aware of the tenderness in Dale's blue eyes meeting her again and again across the little table, of the touch of Dale's hand on hers when from time to time, he reached for it, held it tight a moment. And the dainty, flagged locket lay cool and tangible against the pulse that throbbled in the soft hollow of her throat.

"Happy?" Dale asked her once. She nodded, blushed a little by sudden tears. "Too happy to be true."

He scowled suddenly. "Don't say that, darling. It has to be true."

Of course, she smiled, but again that funny little feeling of apprehension. It grew stronger as the evening slipped away and it was finally time to return to the hacienda.

"I'm afraid they'll have a posse out after us if we don't show up pretty soon," Dale said as they walked through the cool, moon-spashed shadows up to the big white hacienda.

They stood a long moment in the tiled hallway trying to say good night.

"Love me, darling?" Dale whispered, held her close.

"Love you, darling."

He kissed her then, lingeringly, as if he couldn't stop. Then, "Good night, sweet. You'll be up before I leave in the morning?"

"Of course. Good night!" and pressing her own kiss against the warmth of his mouth she smiled, slipped out of his arms and ran quickly up the tiled stairway.

It was past midnight and most of the rooms were dark now, Devona noticed as she sped silently along the wide hallway. Still from under her mother's door a shaft of yellow light crossed the polished floor. Vava was still awake. Devona hesitated. Why not tell her now? She might be anxious about Devona's long absence. She would surely be relieved to know Devona's future was all solved.

On impulse, Devona knocked softly.

"Come in," Heart pounding, she pushed open the door. Vava, like some mid-summer night's queen, lay against her mound of frothy pillows, a manuscript in one hand, a cool smile curving her lips.

"Well—it's you! We've wondered where you were." "I went for a ride—" Vava's eyebrows lifted. "From dawn until midnight? Hardly."

"No—Dale sent the horses back about noon and we had dinner in—"

"Dale?" Vava looked at her steadily. "I see."

"Mother—Vava, I mean—I came to tell you something—I—" Her tongue tripped awkwardly over the thrilling news.

"Tell me first why you insist on tagging Dale around all day."

"I wasn't—I mean—we rode out on the mesa and then I—"

In the face of her mother's cool little smile, Devona felt enthusiasm and confidence ebbing swiftly.

"Well—" "You needn't bother about me any more, Vava. About my career or anything, I mean. You see, I'm going to marry Dale," she blurted finally.

For an instant Vava just looked at her. Then, with ominous quiet, "You are going to marry whom?"

"Dale. We found it out to-day. That we love each other, I mean."

Trembling, she sat down on the edge of a chair, torturing her riding gloves as she waited for Vava's approval. Naturally her mother would be glad to have everything solved this easily.

"Are you sure?" The question came cool and sharp as a stiletto thrust.

"But—of course. He loves me. We—"

Vava calmly lit a cigarette. "Did he set the date for the wedding?"

"Oh, no. Not yet. We just—" "Did he ask you—in so many words—to be his wife?" Vava's gray eyes were leveled at her, her insinuation only too clear.

"Why—" Devona hesitated. He hadn't actually said—but, of course—he'd meant—" "I thought so," Vava went on smoothly.

"But—he said he loved me, wanted never to lose me—" Desperately she thought back through the long, glorious day, remembering his exact words, his—

"Believe me, dear, when I tell you to put Dale Brasher out of your mind," she went on quietly. "I'm only sparing you suffering. And now—" with sudden bright cheerfulness—"I have really good news for you."

Devona just looked at her, mute, stricken.

"I had an answer to my wire to that college I spoke to you about for a small additional registration fee, you can enter later. And with your background of travel languages and all that—" Vava bundled Devona's 19 years into a pretty gesture—"you can easily make up any requirements you don't have for a degree."

Devona nodded, scarcely listening. "George is making all the arrangements for you. You can take the evening train from Los Angeles to-morrow. We'll run into town and do a little shopping in the morning."

"All right," Devona agreed dully. It didn't matter now. Nothing mattered. If what Vava said was true—

With a sudden sweeping gesture like some lovely bird coming to rest on the arm of Devona's chair, Vava flung her arms around her daughter's neck, kissed her tenderly. "Believe me, dear, this will be best. You are young. Young hearts ache—but they don't break. You'll get over this soon and learn to love—some one else."

Devona met her mother's eyes steadily. "No. There will never be anyone else."

"Don't be silly, child," she contradicted brightly. "Of course there will. Now you run along to bed like a good girl."

For an hour, Devona paced her pretty room, trying desperately to find an answer to the awful question in her heart. Dale had said he loved her. But—and the cold fact loomed larger every moment—he hadn't mentioned marriage. Not once during their whole long day together. And what if that hadn't been—just accidental! What if he hadn't intended she take that for granted! What if even now he was laughing at her for taking his flirting so seriously!

Heart-sick, she felt the weight of the pretty silver locket at her throat. Buying her bangles as he had wanted a child, her pride tormented her. Pretty silver locket instead of—

Bishop Asks Question

Who Will Ring Bells In Britain When Invasion Comes

A ringing question jarred Britain to-day amid swelling talk of invasion in high places and low.

"Who," the Bishop of Chelmsford wants to know, "is going to ring the bells which are supposed to tell the populace that invasion has begun?" Soldiers are busy digging fresh trenches in the park and are unwinding new barbed wire to fortify all most every bush and tree, but the Bishop's poser is perplexing lots of persons.

It's this way: Britain's churches are locked at night. Comes the invader. What happens? Some one has got to get the key, which usually is kept at the rectory. The rectory often is some distance, perhaps miles, from the church.

Suppose panning Paul Reveres reach the rectory. Comes more confusion. Parson must be roused.

Suppose the parson hasn't got the key. He must refer one to the vergers, who must be found, awakened and asked for the key.

In any event, the vergers, or more expert bell-ringer, should be on hand to ring the bells because church bell ringing is not like ringing a dinner bell, experts point out, and an amateur might crack the bell or jam the clapper.

Some solutions suggested include:

1. Furnish the home guards with skeleton keys to the churches and give them a little instruction in proper bell ringing technique.
2. Substitute rockets for bells.

A Refreshing Story

How The Australian Prime Minister Handled A Snob

While at Plymouth I was told by local pressmen a refreshing story of Mr. Menzies, the Australian premier.

During a recent visit to military stations in the West Country he was accompanied by a superlatively officious official who did not conceal his loathing for the press and tried hard to keep accredited newspapermen out of sight.

At last Mr. Menzies, having discovered what was happening, called the reporters to him and proceeded to give them a long and interesting personal talk on his morning's experience.

The exasperated official stood this improperly for a few minutes. Then, his irritation overcoming his politeness and good judgment, he marched up to Mr. Menzies, saluted, and said sternly: "Excuse me, sir, your lunch is waiting."

Mr. Menzies turned towards him, looked him coldly up and down for some seconds, and observed with slow deliberation: "Push off. You must have seen that I am engaged in an important interview with the press. Push off." And with this remark and a vast sweep of the arm, Mr. Menzies blasted the official out of the landscape. He did not reappear.

I like the story very much. It is ethical, artistic, instructive and true.—London News Chronicle.

Could See Ahead

The village of Arthur in Wellington county, Ont., had its Victory Loan queue attended to on the first day at 10 o'clock in the morning. That place is also known as the home of a newspaper whose editor is blind, but the editor and all his neighbors were able to see straight and well and far ahead on this occasion.

Construction of the British Houses of Parliament required 20 years.

X-Ray Examination

To Be Given To All Soldiers On Their Discharge

Dr. G. R. Wherrett, of Ottawa, executive secretary of the Canadian Tuberculosis Association, said in his report of the association's annual meeting that all members of the armed forces will be given an X-ray examination on discharge.

This precautionary measure was expected to clear up many difficulties as to pension claims which had been so hard to solve since the last war. Dr. Wherrett believed that claims could be more fairly judged with an X-ray film of the soldier on attestation, and another one on discharge.

Tuberculosis had not been able to impede Canada's war effort in the same way that it did during the First Great War because of the anti-tuberculosis work accomplished in recent years.

"At this stage of the First Great War the problem of tuberculosis was assuming alarming proportions," he said. "Hundreds of men were in hospitals and returning from overseas with tuberculosis."

Dr. J. A. Jarry, of Montreal, in his presidential address, said that upwards of 2,000 Canadians have been found unfit for military service because of an old or present tuberculosis. This represented an incidence of 14 per cent.

Just Conquered Land

Slovakians Have No Illusions About Status Under Nazi Rule

More than 800 pilots and observers have been transferred from "independent" Slovakia's air force into the German Luftwaffe under decree of Premier Tuka. Berlin's puppet in Bratislava. At the same time a number of Slovak anti-aircraft units have been transferred in small groups among German army units.

The move was made without Slovakia's debt being consulted or informed. It represents for Slovakians the shattering of their last illusion that the nation set up by the Germans as "independent" is anything more than another conquered land to be Nazi-exploited.

Many of Slovakia's state-owned oil wells, partly appropriated by the Nazis, are reported running dry because of intense exploitation. In several instances, production was stepped up to three times original yield.—Cleveland Press.

GEMS OF THOUGHT

NATIONS

A nation is the unity of a people. Coleridge.

A State to prosper, must be built on foundations of a moral character, and this character is the principal element of its strength and the only guaranty of its permanence and prosperity.—Jaher Curry.

The commandments of God are the bread of life for the nations.—Roswell D. Hitchcock.

God is Father, Infinite, and this great truth, when understood in its divine metaphysics, will establish the brotherhood of man, end wars, and demonstrate "on earth peace, good will toward men."—Mary Baker Eddy.

The true grandeur of nations is in those qualities which constitute the true greatness of the individual.—Charles Sumner.

Until nations are generous they will never be wise; true policy is generous policy, all bitterness, selfishness, etc., may gain small ends, but lose great ones.—Washington Irving.

Just Overlooked

Herr Hitler is reported ready to proclaim a "United States of Europe" and to announce that, since German war aims have been accomplished, he has no reason to continue the war. The war aim of conquering England must have been accomplished when we weren't looking, says the Buffalo Courier-Express.

Southern Courtesy

Southern courtesy isn't dead yet. Members of a union were picketing a store in Memphis, Tenn., in a heavy rain, when up drove a woman customer. One of the pickets broke formation to escort her with his umbrella into the store he was picketing.

Hitler never stops to debate whether or not his critics are sincere. Official Nazi comment comes with the ring of the executioner's axe, followed by deaf silence.

For every degree increase in temperature, noise travels one foot faster each second.

Demolition bombs range in weight from 50 to 4,000 pounds. 2417

LEARN GOOD TENNIS FORM TO SHINE ON THE COURTS

Develop Expert Footwork

How discouraging, when you'd like to play tennis well, to be always missing balls, to appear the incurable dud!

But cheer up! By practicing with the right instructions you can improve your form, learn to play a top-notch game.

If the shot were missed or "fozled," the trouble often is poor footwork. Never turn and run at a ball unless you cannot reach it otherwise. You may end up off balance, with feet tangled.

To keep balanced, in a position from which you can hit hard and accurately learn to "two-step" toward the ball.

Suppose your opponent's shot is coming toward your forehead, a little ahead of you. Step forward with your left foot always ahead, your right foot dragging after—as our diagram shows.

If the shot were coming to your backhand, you would "two-step" toward it in the same way, but with the right foot leading.

Other phases of tennis are as simple to master—and you can make a hit this Summer with your fast accurate games. Our 32-page booklet by George Agutter teaches the serve, forehand, backhand, lob, volley, cut strokes. Gives expert advice on footwork, tactics, practicing.

Send 15 cents in coins for your copy of "Develop Correct Tennis Form" to Home Service Dept., Winnipeg Newspaper Union, 175 McDermott Ave. E., Winnipeg, Man.

The following booklets are also available at 15c each: 189—"Announcements, Showers and Birthday Parties" 187—"Decorative And Useful Things to Make with Paper" 178—"How To Do The Newest Dance Steps and Variations" 154—"Etiquette for Young Moderns" 118—"Good Table Manners" 194—"Games and Stunts for Two or More"

Did Good Job

Over a cup of tea the two charlades were discussing the persons they "did for."

"Then there's Mrs. 'Arris," said the one in the purple jumble. "Oh, my dear, er floors—you'd sever believe! When I first started to oblige 'er they was awful!"

She took a sip of tea and wiped her mouth on a purple sleeve.

"Now," she went on proudly—"now I've bin polishing 'em, three of 'er lady friends 'as bin ar broke their legs!"

Conditions In Poland

The British Broadcasting Corporation said that an average of 450 persons died every day during May in Warsaw because of lack of food, while at the same time the Germans published lists of food and other materials they had taken from Poland.

We think we now have proof that borrowing is a very old custom. The Chinese had umbrellas three thousand years ago.

Ninety-five per cent. of the South American continent lies nearer to the Old World than does Montreal.

The harvest of rice in India this season is the smallest in more than twenty years.

Theatre Notes

Shirley Temple Jack Oakie and Charlotte Greenwood are at the Palace tonight and Friday in that gay dancing and comedy feature, “Young People.” Drama, laughter, song and good clean comedy make this picture truly entertaining.

Saturday, Monday and Tuesday one of the screen's most talented actors, Henry Fonda, comes to the Palace in “The Return of Frank James.” It depicts the lawlessness of the old west after the death of the famous Jesse James, brother of Frank. It is pictured in technicolor and is more spectacular and exciting than the unforgettable “Jesse James.”

At Cole's theatre at the weekend the thrilling Joe Louis-Billy fight is still talked of as one of the greatest in the annals of the fight game and many fans are expected to see it.

In addition to the fight pictures
Franchot TONE and Ann SOTHERN will be seen in “Fast and Furious.”
Franchot gets into plenty of trouble when he takes on the assignment of being judge at a bathing beauty contest.

Thrift tickets, six adult 40c tickets for $2.00 are now on sale.

What Would You Do...Personally

To Insure a Victorious Peace?

No doubt you've often said to yourself “I'd do anything to insure a Victorious Peace; but what can I do?”

Well, you can do something and it won't cost you anything. Canada is merely asking you to save as much as you can and Buy War Savings dollar invested to Insure Victory. And don't forget the security of your savings is guaranteed by the Dominion of Canada.
